

A GIFT FROM YOUR PRACTITIONER

The Nervous System Reset Companion

A gentle guide for the time between our sessions

FOUR SESSIONS | ONE SOFT RETURN HOME

A NOTE FOR YOU

Welcome you're in the right place

Before anything else, take one slow breath. Let your shoulders drop a little on the way out. This little companion is yours to keep. It's designed to sit alongside our four sessions and to keep you company in the quiet hours between them. Those moments when old patterns surface and you'd like something kind to reach for.

Print this companion out and find yourself a beautiful journal to keep alongside it. Some pages are for understanding, some are for practising and some are simply blank space for whatever wants to land on the paper. Use a pen. Underline things. Let it get messy. This is a working book, not a precious one.

Your nervous system isn't broken and it isn't your enemy. It has been working hard to keep you safe, often in the only ways it has learned. Our work together is simply about helping it feel safe enough to soften and giving it new, gentler options. You already have everything you need to begin.

With warmth and care for the road ahead,

Laila Marchant

HOW TO USE THIS COMPANION

Over four weeks, gently mapped

Think of these four sessions as a slow exhale spread over time.

Each one builds on the last. Here's the shape of where we're headed.

1 Meet your Nervous System

A grounding introduction to how your autonomic nervous system works and why your body responds to stress the way it does.

2 The Breath as a Doorway

Using the breath as the most accessible entry point. Here you begin building interoception, the ability to notice what's happening inside your body in real time.

3 Finding What's Stored

With this inner awareness online, you learn to locate where stress and emotion actually live inside the body.

4 Completing the Stress Cycle

Finally, you release the stored energy and weave it all together so the reset doesn't just happen here, but it becomes part of your every day life.

Between sessions, try this

Pick one small practice from your toolkit and do it daily, even for sixty seconds.

Consistency, not intensity, is what teaches a nervous system it's safe. Use the check-in pages to notice what shifts and bring your insights into our next sessions.

The three states

Your nervous system is always asking one quiet question: am I safe right now?

Depending on the answer, it shifts you into one of three states.

None of them are bad, each one is your body trying to protect you.

WHERE WE WANT TO BE

Ventral Vagal | regulated, safety & connection

Here you respond rather than react. Social engagement is effortless, the mind is grounded, focused and the world feels open, safe and full of connection.

FOOT ON THE ACCELERATOR

Sympathetic | fight or flight

The heart is pounding, thoughts are racing, you are feeling on edge and unable to settle. Adrenaline kicks in, your pulse climbs and your senses sharpen. Energy is surging (mobilisation) with nowhere safe to go.

FOOT ON THE BRAKE

Dorsal Vagal | freeze or shutdown

Dorsal vagal is the body's protective state of immobilisation (lack of movement). Energy is either trapped and tense in freeze, or collapsed and shut down in disconnection.

The goal isn't to stay calm forever

The goal is to expand your window of tolerance so that minor stressors no longer tip you into a state of dysregulation. The goal is to build your capacity to tolerate and witness discomfort, then return to regulation and integration. This is a skill, not a personality trait and it's exactly what we're practising.

The three nervous system states are drawn from Polyvagal Theory, developed by Dr. Stephen Porges, and the 'ladder' framework popularised by Deb Dana.

BETWEEN SESSIONS

A daily check-in

A simple two-minute ritual. Copy this into your journal each day, or photocopy this page to reuse.

Right now, my nervous system feels more like...

regulated

wound up

foggy / flat

somewhere in-between

Where do I feel this in my body?

How would I rate this sensation out of 10?

What does this sensation feel like?

What might my body be needing right now?

A practice I reached for and what shifted?

Mindfulness

The practice of sitting with a sensation, thought, or feeling exactly as it is, not trying to fix or change it. We turn toward it without aversion, meeting it with curiosity, acceptance and a willingness to understand.

My regulation anchors

The three practices that work best for me. My go-to list when I need to come home:

You've shown up for yourself
through this work and that matters.

However this season finds you, I'm so glad we're doing this work together.

Be gentle with yourself between now and when we next meet.

With care, always,

WORK WITH ME

If this guide found you at the right time,
that's not a coincidence.

Real, lasting regulation happens in the body, through practice, repetition and support.
If you're ready to go deeper, I'd love to work with you.
